Thanks to the Broadband Commission for Digital Development [2], this video illustrates some of the benefits of broadband Internet for consumers from around the world, whatever their level of development. But access to broadband networks is only part of the story. Consumers also must be protected from unfair policies and practices of network operators. This is where Consumers International's new project Holding Broadband Service Providers to Account comes in. In a few days, you will have the opportunity to participate in our global survey for that project. Please keep watching this website to find out more.
